

Global Futures

Stress testing the world economy

Experian Business Strategies' Global Futures service provides you with concise, comprehensive and forward-looking analyses of the business, economic and political conditions in over 40 countries, ensuring you have a clear understanding of the investment climate in the countries that matter to you.

Global Futures presents Experian's ten-year country forecasts of the world's leading economies, covering Europe, Asia, Latin America, North America and Africa and representing over 95% of the world's GDP and FDI.

Reports

Global business prospects - A key feature of the service, our Global business prospects offer a concise and consistent 12-month view of business opportunities and risks. They give you an understanding and summary of the business environment for all key markets, enabling you to make comparisons across countries and markets.

Stress tests - Major global changes create repercussions that are felt around the world. All economies and markets are linked and any changes affect investment returns. What are the implications to the investment climate of higher oil prices? Dollar weakness? US recession? How will they impact on long-term business opportunities? Ultimately, Global Futures' stress tests/scenario analyses will allow business planners to stress test the global economy and understand the impact of economic and business risks on investments.

Country analyses - Understand key trends, business conditions and the business environment at a glance. Country analyses of over 40 economies are presented in a format that is easy to use and interpret to make business decisions. They provide a concise evaluation of political, economic and business conditions, and how they will evolve over the medium to long-term.

Forecasts

The following economic data is available:

- GDP growth and its components
- financial markets
- external debt
- demographics
- wage and price inflation
- foreign trade and payments
- market opportunities
- sector performance

Experian's comprehensive historical global economic database is integrated with ten-year forecasts. Data is available in a consistent format facilitating comparisons across countries and sectors. The database includes both our base case forecast and the outputs of our scenario analysis, enabling you to quantify the economic risk that your investments are exposed to.

The service

Experian's Global Futures service provides a quarterly report containing extensive forecasts, analysis and information to help you understand the impact of the economic, financial and business climate on your investments in over 40 countries.

Deliverables include:

- Quarterly reports
- Detailed quarterly economic database containing historical data and ten-year forecasts, including Experian's base case forecast and scenario analysis
- Experian experts - To help you make better informed decisions, the Global Futures service gives you access to Experian Business Strategies' senior economists and analysts, who will support you with the insights and perspectives necessary to get the most from our research.

For further information please contact Michael Dove:

T: +61 418 359 711

E: michael.dove@hk.experian.com

W: www.business-strategies.co.uk
www.experian.com.hk/ebs